Foreword

Wartburg College has a heritage from the medieval days in the glory of the Wartburg Castle. With this in mind, the Fortress staff asks its readers to go back in imagination, back a few hundred years, to the times of Lords and Ladies; Crusades and Pilgrimages; Knights and Chivalry in this the 1947 Fortress.

Dedication

T*o the memory of our beloved Dean William Roselius, who throughout his life exemplified the character of a true knight, we, the staff, dedicate this 1947 Fortress. Dean Roselius always took the time to say the things that other people thought.*

His honesty, sportsmanship, and consideration for his fellowman should be a goal for all who knew him.

Lords
Of The Castle

In the Faculty Room are Prof. A. W. Swensen, Dr. Martin Wiederaenders, and Dean William Roselius discussing a current situation.

D ynamic leader guiding Wartburg College in these days of expansion and remodeling is

C. H. Becker in his second year as president of this fortress of Christian Higher Education.

Leaders in the Realm

W atching over the destinies of Wartburg as a college of the American Lutheran Church is her Board of Regents, working with the Board of Christian Higher Education and the administration in planning the present and future of the institution.

BOARD OF REGENTS

Seated—Dr. Henry Schuh, Rev. C. August Decker, Dr. W. L. Young, President C. H. Becker, Rev. C. T. Langholz.
Standing—Mr. Carl Sievert, Rev. Alvin Fritschel, Mr. Walter Voecks, Rev. L. L. Belk, Rev. Meritt Bomhoff, Dean G. J. Neumann.

They Take the Helm

FACULTY-STUDENT COUNCIL

Ernest Wilcke, Lawrence Reyelts, Gertrude Brokering, Dean G. J. Neumann, Miss Elizabeth Gjervik, Dean William Roselius, Rev. Marvin Grunke.

Under the able leadership of the student body president, Lawrence Reyelts, the Student Senate served as the connecting link between students and faculty. Faced with the problem of a crowded college, the Senate had many difficulties to work out, such as adequate activities, regulations for the Den, and traffic rules on the campus.

During the first semester, the Senate's project consisted of a campaign to raise money for the Lounge furniture. The second semester project took the form of a contribution to the World Student Service Fund. In a lighter vein, two peppy outflies were sponsored. Raymond Martin served the group as vice-president, Mildred Reinke as secretary, and Stella Buhr as treasurer.

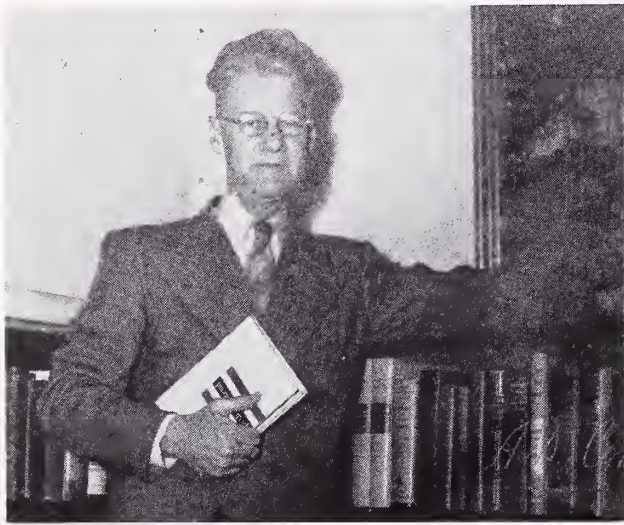

STUDENT SENATE

Standing—Alvin Pinke, Arthur Baehmann, Norman Langholz, Paul Lechner, Ernest Wilcke, Paul Metzger, Herman Diers.

Of the King's Council

Having served on the Wartburg College faculty for the past thirty-seven years, Dr. G. J. Neumann is the very capable dean of the expanding faculty, as well as head of the English department. He handles the academic details for faculty and students and is one of the leaders in helping to put Wartburg College out in front.

Counseling and advising the women students of the college with their academic and social problems, Miss Elizabeth Gjervik serves the school well as dean of women.

Dean William H. Roselius, who has passed on to the Greater Service, acted as a mediator between faculty and students and as chief advisor to the rank and file of students in his capacity of dean of the student body.

Dear Miss Wolff,
as the school year draws to a close, we realize how short it really was. It was sure being in your Journalism class, Miss Wolff. I enjoyed it. I hope I'll be able to return what you've taught me and make use of it in later life. Best wishes, Arthur

Out of a motley assemblage of raw materials, Wartburg Castle has molded another staunch group of young men ready to be knighted and young ladies prepared to leave the home fortress for greater deeds "over the draw-bridge, on the other side of the moat."

She has looked with pride on these young people as they have grown physically, intellectually, and morally within her protecting walls, and now she bids them "Godspeed" as they leave her concert halls, her stages, her athletic courts, and her classrooms.

She will miss them, but what is loss to the Wartburg Court will be gain to the great world outside as these people go forth to become leaders of other men and women and to engage in greater tournaments.

Good journey, brave knights and ladies! May you ever hold fast to the Excalibur you have drawn from this place; may it aid you in your quest for the Holy Grail.

Under the direction of Sir Robert Reitz, first semester president of the junior class, those worthy knights and knighties presented a skit, "Chicken Little," at Homecoming and sold Christmas cards as an annual project of the class. (Banquet pence and shillings, you know, for the maiden you would most like to kidnap from a castle balcony!)

As proof of the personality of junior class damsels, Emilie Hannemann was chosen Queen of the Homecoming fete and in her court were Joan Sandrock and Constance Schumacher, both juniors.

Lord Ted Guetzlaff, recently returned from service in His Majesty's (U.S.A.) Navy, was elected class president for the second semester, and, together with Lady Margaret Fritschel, banquet chairman, planned the "Maytime" junior-senior banquet, held May 23.

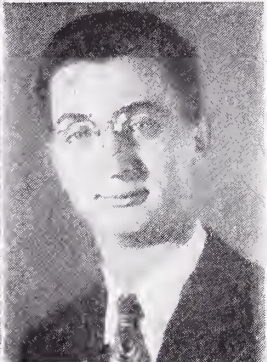

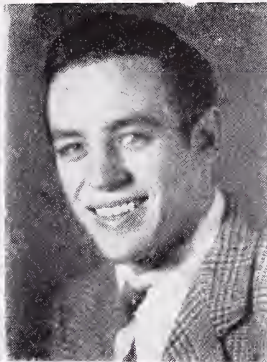

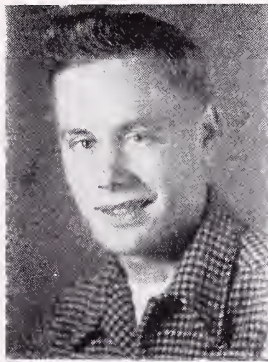

Vice-president was Marilyn Wallace and secretary-treasurer was Betty Kroll. Mr. Raymond Norheim served the class as advisor.

In the year 1945, one hundred squires entered in the service of Wartburg Castle. This year they became full-fledged knights and were among the strongest on the castle grounds.

Knight Leonard Bauhs headed the group, while Kenneth Priebe, vice-president, Gertrude Brokering, secretary, and Mary Stollfus, treasurer, served as auxiliary officers.

Initiation and Kangaroo Hori were in charge of these capable knights. Both traditional institutions were carried out in the best manner.

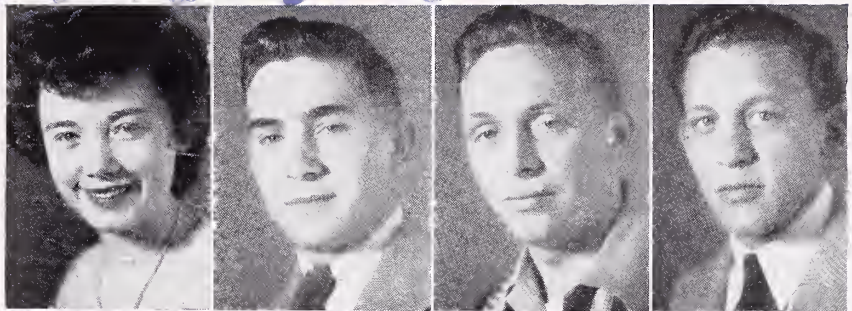

Just before the Thanksgiving recess, the sophomores met for a festival of their own.

Knights now going forth to battle look to these members of their group to live up to the traditions and ideals of the Castle Wartburg.

The fall of 1946 brought more than 250 freshman squires to the confines of Wartburg Castle. They were eager for the time when the orders of knighthood would be laid upon them. But before this could be attained, they had to face severe trials and dangers, proving their worth to the stalwart upper-classmen. Donning the garb of a squire was only one misery to be endured. Then there were dragons to be overcome, in the form of upperclassmen dates, castles to be stormed, by carefully checking rivets on the drawbridges, and fierce hordes of Huns to be driven back along Bremer Avenue by means of ballet dancing, speeches, and fishing. Finally, they completed their tests and seriously joined the Christian Knights in their quest for an education.

In February the banquet hall resounded with noise and laughter as the squires entertained the castle folk at a valentine party.

Leading them in their victory to knighthood was Eleanor Stubenvoll, president; Marshall Becker, vice-president; Carol Loots, secretary; Harold Meyer, treasurer; and Paul Kroeger, historian.

FORTRESS Scribes

Racking their brains and their talents for the cause are Fortress staff members Margaret Fritschel, Richard Wiederanders, Emilie Hannemann, Herbert Heist, Barbara Becker, and Miss Wolff.

Out of the deep dungeons of Wartburg's oldest hall, the staff presents this, the 1947 Fortress.

Many candles were burned, many hours sacrificed as the serfs slaved on. Budgets, dummies, pictures, panels, copy, heads—all were dealt with in their turn.

and Dick Wiederanders, staff photographers; Delores Loots, cover designer; Bobbie Becker, cartoonist; and Miss Helen Wright for her co-operation. To Lady Margaret Wolff goes a special nosegay for her many ideas and her tireless work as Fortress advisor.

The Fortress is the stronghold of the college. Through it are preserved pictures and features of the faculty, students, and fun which make the knights' stay at this castle memorable.

TRUMPET the News

Wartburg "jongleurs" during 1946 '47 realized the long-cherished goal of six scores of music for the Trumpet by raising the "banalite" from $1.25 to $1.50.

Furnishing the epics and ballads were the "troubadours" and the "trouvers" of the newly created guild called Journalism, headed by Lady Margaret Wolff.

Greatest of their songs were the "chansons de geste," which retold the story of future castles, rededication, and the victorious Homecoming. The "vers" relived the speeches of such nobles as Dr. Paul Empie, Dr. Marcus Bach, Chief Eagle Plume, and Speaker Bernice Clifton.

"Sirvintes" praised the Wartburg band, choirs, and gallant Knights, who both attacked enemy courts and defended their own castle.

Through "corvees" (payments by labor), the jongleurs responded to the plea of the gentry for a chronicle of the castle's deeds. As a result, every Wednesday and Thursday night assemblers gathered to adapt the songs to their proper setting. On Friday, "mires" made the final checkup and tuned the Trumpet. Saturday, after two weeks of preparation, the Trumpet was ready to deliver its harmonious notes to the Knights and Ladies.

Singing to His Glory

Wartburg's band of Minnesingers, the college a cappella choir, reached greater heights than ever before. Not only did they journey through the duchies of Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakotas, but they entered the foreign domain of Canada, singing their chants and motets before the assembled courts at Winnipeg, Manitoba, and Kenora, Ontario.

Over 125 Knights were eager to join the band of minstrels and become the vassals of the highly honored and respected chieftain, Dr.

Edwin Liemohn. Of that number, however, only fifty were chosen.

Preceding the long pilgrimage of April 11 to 26, Sunday jaunts were made to Grafton, Oelwein, Waterloo, and Waverly. Besides these personal appearances, the inhabitants of the kingdom gathered around their radios every Tuesday evening to hear these Minnesingers.

William Fink was elected to serve as president of the group; Wayne Bohling, vice-president; and Audra Peters, secretary.

Gleemen Aspire

Warburg chapel choir provides the shop in which apprenticed troubadours strive to become members of the craft guild by working under the guidance of Master Craftsman Edfield Odegard.

Proof of the craftsmanship of the apprentices has been revealed in their performance at the dedication of the Castle Den and in appearances before the castle-dwellers on several occasions.

Three times the band followed its wanderlust and proudly crusaded to several cathedrals in the surrounding territories.

Journeymen of the group, leading the apprentices through this period of learning, are George Roleder, president; Mildred Diedrich, secretary; Herman Diers, property-manager; and Clare Schroeder, vice-president and rehearsal accompanist.

And Learn Appreciation

Musically minded knights and ladies gathered informally every month as a Music Appreciation Club in the studio of Old Main to hear and study the music of the masters.

President of the group is Bill Roleder with Mildred Reinke as vice-president and Lois Volkmann as secretary-treasurer. Alternating counselors for the group are Mrs. Erma Bowman,

Mr. Edfield Odegard, and Dr. Edwin Liemohn, present counselor.

The club sponsored the monthly recitals of student talent from the various sections of the music department.

Strike your harp, my merry lad,

And give us, too, your song!

This night our hearts are gay, not sad;

Our laugh is loud and long.

Musicians Entertain

The Wartburg band really displayed spirit worthy of knights in armor this year. The group does not as yet have the "armor", but the members have been working hard to raise money for new uniforms, which they hope to have by the 1947 Homecoming.

Pep was added to the football and basketball games of the Knights by the presence of the band on the sidelines. Under its new Viking leader, Edfield Odegard, the band appeared at all the home athletic events and went out of town to play at the football game at Upper Iowa and the basketball game with the Norsemen at Luther.

This forty-piece band gave its debut concert in December at St. Paul's Parish Hall. In March the band gave a large spring concert, all receipts going to the uniform fund.

Small ensemble groups of selected band members appeared at many public gatherings and banquets during the year.

Ted Guetzlaff was elected president; Eunice Butters, secretary-treasurer; Marilyn Mueller, librarian; and Orville Obermeyer, property manager.

They set the pace, those young Queens of Pi Sigma—the pace of beauty, culture, and poise. In their meetings passed a parade of guest speakers astride chargers bringing news of modern dress and etiquette.

From out the court of about 176 women came the adorning of Queen Emilie's throne at Homecoming; a walk to the woods with oldster taking youngster in charge; a Yuletide party for little ones of the Children's Home; and two festivals in honor of those visiting gleemen, the Don Cossacks, and feting Miss Marjorie Moffett, diseuse.

Springtime brought a formal initiation and a May breakfast!

High in Pi Sigma's court was Emilie Hannemann, president; Delores Loots, vice-president;
Ilo Mae Oelke, secretary; and Margaret Richmann, treasurer.

Patronesses of the group included Mrs. E. T.

Hertel, while Miss Perna Lohn, Miss Elizabeth
Gjervik and Miss Margaret Wolff acted as advisors.

PILGRIMS AND STRANGERS

An organization which provided a fellowship and brotherly spirit at the castle is the Lutheran Student Association. Ray Martin acted as leader for these Wartburg men-at-arms and was assisted by Paul Albers, vice-president, Albert Meyer, treasurer, Gertrude Brokering, secretary (also secretary of the Iowa Region), and the Rev. Marvin Grunke, counselor.

The castle courts teemed with a new and vigorous spirit as the group undertook and completed its many projects, most important of which was the Little Ashram held in May. The group helped pay the educational expenses of native Lutheran students in New Guinea, distributed Christmas baskets to the aged and infirm, organized singing groups to visit shut-ins, and provided "big sisters" and "big brothers" for the children at the Home.

The organization was divided into teams equivalent to the number of meetings during the year. At each meeting a different team arranged the program, devotions, and a cost meal, which became quite popular.

Among the outstanding programs were question boxes answered by the Rev. Walter Tillmanns, discussion of courtship and marriage by President C. H. Becker, Halloween party, and a box social.

Much of the success of the LSA was due to the fine leadership of the team captains and the enthusiastic efforts of the Rev. Mr. Grunke.

"Being brethren, no advantages shall be taken on either side.

Between us there shall be nothing but openness and love."

The Rev. Marvin Grunke, Gertrude Brokering, Raymond Martin, Albert Meyer, and Paul Albers—advisor and officers of the local LSA. They make the wheels turn smoothly.

At the box social sponsored for the LSA mission drive, David Heidtke, George Roleder, Helen Sprenger, Lora Koepsell, and Alwin Thomack seem to be enjoying the social and the food.

President Becker speaks at the February Valentine meeting. His topic, "Courtship and Marriage."

Another LSA Feature—Sunday night supper. The Rev. Marvin Grunke pays Albert for his tray.

Prepare for Clergy

A foreboding, a premonition, hangs over the castle air. The sky is cold and overcast. Wise old warriors speak softly to each other and shake their heads. The lords drill their knights more intensely and relentlessly, like a farmer quickly but carefully gathering his hay with an eye on the approaching storm clouds. The young do not sense the hidden dangers, and murmur and complain under the increased labor.

The awesome day arrives. The warning trumpet sounds from the rampart, and a warning cry commands, "Prepare for battle!" Glittering swords and shields are brought forth and triple mail is donned, as the knights ride forth to protect their castle.

The society presented its annual Christmas Candlelight Service with the traditional speaking choir, and also supplied each student with devotional booklets during the entire school year.

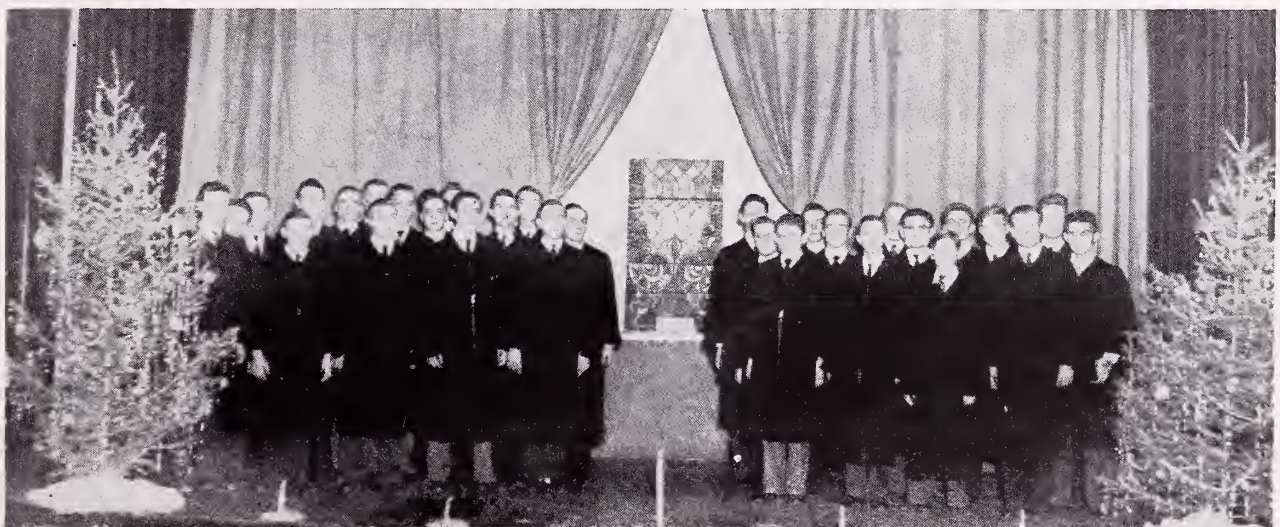

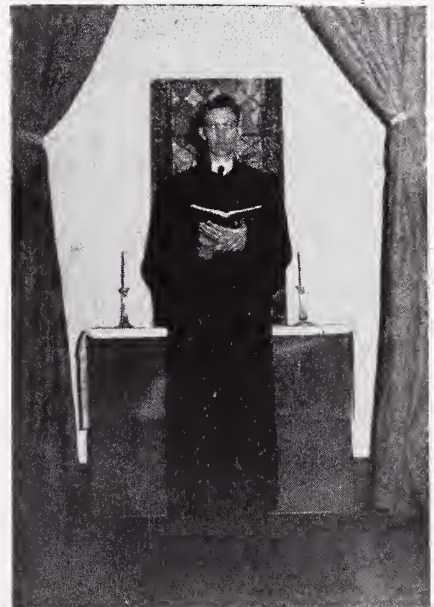

"O just and faithful knight of God!
Ride on! The prize is near."

Each year the Chi Rho presents a Candlelight Service vividly re-creating by song and readings the birth of Jesus. Side picture—Clarence Brauer, leader, reads the "scene laying" Scripture passages. Bottom—The speaking choir chants the prophecies and fulfillments of the Christmas story.

Wartburg is training a legion of knights who will some day be ready to ride against the evils of the world. The Chi Rho pre-theological society was this year greater in number and very conscious of the importance and difficulty of its ensuing tasks.

The group's activities were guided by Clarence Brauer, hard-working president of the future ministers, together with Don Fallon, vice-president, Henry Flessner, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. John Hiltner, who helped the organization reach its peak.

Beginning early in preparing for their future work, underclassmen led the regular devotion at the Lutheran Children's Home, and upper-classmen took charge of evening chapel services at the college.

The Guild of the Phebes is made up of girls eager to help others to find the Holy Grail. They are the girls who will work among the nobility and peasants, in the cathedrals, as well as highways and byways, assisting the clergy in every way they can.

During the past year, they made pilgrimages to all churches in Waverly, visiting many Sunday School classes. They prepared the chapel for services, even leading some of these services themselves.

In February they journeyed to Waterloo for the knighting of a fellow worker, and while there, visited several other Lutheran churches and talked to many of the clergy and fellow guild members.

Phebes also took charge of copying "The Phebes Epistle" and distributing it to all guild members.

Leading the group for the year were Gertrude Brokering, president; Phyllis Vanell, vice-president; and Alice Bast, secretary-treasurer.

That Which Was Lost

Because of the evil conditions forced upon the serfs and peasants, the Passavant Guild was organized to enable those interested to become acquainted with these sordid conditions.

An ambassador of Alcoholics Anonymous addressed the apprentices, as did also Mr. W. C. Haley, "sergeant of the lawe" from Bremer County, who spoke on blindness. The group made a pilgrimage to the Bremer County Home and the Lutheran Children's Home.

Leading the guild in its onward march was Richard Fenske, president; Emil Dockter, vice-president; Anne Vorthmann, secretary; Mae Schmidt, treasurer. The Rev. Roland W. Johnson acted as master craftsman to the group.

Gathering from far corners of our noble country to act before the king and his royal court, a troupe, dubbed the Wartburg Players, performed "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder, December 5.

Later, the Players favored the court with the drama "Double Door," penned by Elizabeth McFadden, which was presented the evening of the dedication of the Castle Den and other improvements.

Senior Day, April 30, brought the troupe back to the stage presenting the comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring.

At Homecoming the troupe was honored by securing highest award for its skit "Little Nell" and second honor for its parade float. The spring convocation and Crusader Picnic were the final troupe activities.

Troupe officers were Victor Schmidt, troupe master; Russell Dillemath, master's assistant; Margaret Richmann, scrivener; Clifford Dirksen and Ruth Engelbrecht, keepers of the monies; and L. W. Brewster, lord high counselor.

Bist du ein Deutsch-verderber? Not if you belong to that group of knights which attends the Hans Sachs Verein the second Thursday of each month. Here the Maedchen und Jungens delve into German culture and learning.

Herr Jacob Cornils introduced the group to dem Hans Sachs Verein at its first meeting.

For its performance before the Homecoming court, the guild presented the playlet "Student aus dem Paradies," for which it received second place honors of the evening. Later the group produced another play, "Einer Muss Heiraten," a romantic comedy, the profits of which purchased a phonograph for the German department.

During the year der Hans Sachs has been entertained by a German band from Waterloo; an address by Herr Gerhard Ottersberg, "What Shall We Do with Germany?"; and a discussion by Henry Flessner concerning his work with German prisoners of war.

The Gilder nobility included Russell Schilling, president; Barbara Becker, vice-president; and Carolyn Jones, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. Walter Tillmanns served as advisor.

Distinguished among their group was Richard Wiederanders, elected president of the Northeast Iowa Future Teachers Association at its meeting in Des Moines this year.

Always forging ahead! From within the walls of Wartburg have gone forth knights to conquer a world of medicine and industry. Science has taken large strides since the time of helmets and spears. Knights have gone forth from here to lay the foundations for castles that were in the air.

It is expedient that all who leave this fortress be well prepared to take their places in the scientific world and so the Science Club scheduled a program to cover recent developments and provide a broad perspective in this field.

The centennial celebration of Edison, a reserve naval officer who showed films on radar, and a speaker from Iowa State Teachers College who showed film strips and souvenirs concerning his research in South America were the main highlights.

During the year the club was led by Stella Buhr acting as president; Leroy Quandt, vice-president; Jean Kapplinger, secretary-treasurer; Margaret Vorthmann, reporter. Dr. E. W. Hertel acted as advisor.

Poet's Progress: A Modern Ballad

'T was not till nineteen forty-six
That courtiers whispered wide:
"Lord Thomas found he loves Annette—
Would have her for his bride."

Within the court, where dwelt her sire,
'Twas there he testified:
"I, Thomas, know I love Annette,
Would have her for my bride!"

"Good suitor, thou must prove thy worth
And be by dangers tried.
Then, Thomas, thou might'st win Annette
And have her for thy bride."

He vanquished dragons, swam the floods—
No task below his pride;

For Thomas sought to win Annette
And have her for his bride.

When succored by ambrosial draught,
With manna satisfied,
Lord Thomas, drawing near Annette,
Still lacked her for his bride.

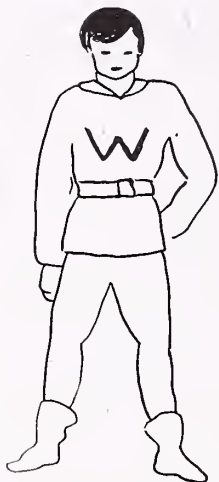

The court, our club; the sire, our dean—
With coffee—draught supplied,
We, Thomases, all sought Annette
To have her for our bride.

Thus conquering dragons' venom, rhyme,
Outlasting rhythms' tide—
We sought Perfection, our Annette—
Still seek her for our bride.

KNIGHTS WIN HONORS

Members of a select band of warriors who have carried the Orange and Black standards into battle on the gridiron, the hardcourt, the diamond, and the cinders, are forty-nine young Knights in the ranks of those who have earned the honor emblems for their deeds, the Wartburg "W" Club.

This combination honor-and-service corps was responsible for the publication of the Homecoming booklet, served as an honor guard for the Homecoming queen, sold Wartburg T-shirts, took tickets at athletic contests, and were in charge of pre-game and half-time ceremonies at the Homecoming festivities as well as the purchase and award of honor sweaters to junior two-letter winners.

Lord Stanley Hall served the group as sponsor, and Sirs Don Fallon, Herbert Heist and Stanley Wignes served as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

CHEERED BY LADIES

And were you at the tournaments this year, fair lady and bold knight? If you witnessed some of those thrilling contests on the "hoop arena," mayhap you saw at one time or another thirty-one of the castle's most lovely and most vivacious pepsters—damsels who, wearing the colors of Castle Wartburg, stirred the Knights to victories over men of rival strongholds.

Gowned in white over-blouses, commonly called sweatshirts, and contrasting dark skirts, these ladies—Pep Club in disguise up to this time—satisfied hunger pains of knight and knightie attending the games by selling a delicacy called ice cream, sweet bars, roasted corn, and cola during intermissions of the contests. The Pep Club also entertained the crowds during the halftime.

Lady Margaret Richmann was president of the group, and Betty Fallon, secretary-treasurer. Advisors were the late Dean W. H. Roselius, Miss Helene Haefner, and Mrs. E. W. Hertel.

For the Glory of the Castle

The year 1946 saw a band of seventy noblemen gathered to defend the honor of Wartburg Castle in the forthcoming football tournaments. Fourteen of these were knights already recognized for their previous valor.

The first round of the tournaments ended with a smashing victory against distant Carthage. At the Homecoming contest Wartburg nobles fought valiantly, to defeat their bitter foes from Buena Vista with a score of 12-7.

Due to superior forces, however, local Knights lost the remaining contests to Dubuque, Simpson, and Upper Iowa.

Lord Hall, Count Hertel, and Duke Fruehling led Wartburg forces on the field. Special distinction was given to Knights Bill Hughes and Luvern Sauerbry. They were awarded positions on the second all-conference team in recognition of their outstanding courage on the field.

led by Lord Stanley of the House of Hall, the Wartburg Knights engaged in seven and ten tournaments in 1946-'47. The valiant Knights emerged victorious in eight jousts while losing nine tilts.

Great rejoicing was heard when the men of Wartburg Castle repulsed the raid of the vaunted Norsemen from Luther to topple a previously undefeated Viking team from the conference leadership.

Knight Paul, the Koch, and Knight Luvern, the Sauerby, spearheaded the Wartburg attack with 166 and 156 points, respectively, in the thirteen Iowa Conference contests. Their totals stand in third and sixth places in the scoring race.

Knighties Attempt

A group of twelve sturdy knighties, under the fighting leadership of Joe Pries, laid aside their distaff and spindle in exchange for a basketball. The girls diligently practiced, developing their muscles and skill. The enemy was completely routed. Its defeat proved so ignominious that all potential enemies fled without another thought of battle, much to the dismay of the battle-loving Knighties. Thus the season ended a complete victory, but a little disappointing, with hopes for next year.

To Emulate Knights

The arena of Wartburg Castle daily witnessed the scenes of fair damsels and bold knights developing strong bodies for the battles and tournaments life holds in store. Ladies Helen Wright and Pauline Hughes served as training masters over the damsels, taking them through the rigors of push-ups, badminton tournaments, and long walks through the city-state of Waverly. They were drilled in the use of cross-bows and the running of relays.

The Knights were trained in manly vigor by Lord Stanley Hall and several student assistants, who took them through the paces of duck-walks, windmills, wrestling, knee-bends, volleyball, basketball, and bicycling.

Many times the delicate Knighties—and probably the battle-scarred Knights, too—found the rigors of this training ground too hard on weak muscles. Often the walls of Wartburg Hall echoed with moans and groans.

But it was in that vine-covered arena that the Wartburgers learned the principles of good sportsmanship and developed healthy bodies which should carry them through life and permit them to serve as true Christian Knights.

Right—To keep their bodies healthy and in good condition is the purpose of these girls' exercises.

The COURT Sees Contests

No official conference tennis schedule was played in 1946, but the Knights engaged Loras once and Luther twice on the field of battle.

Robert Engelbrecht, who had also played on the team in 1943, Ralph Immer, Soup Heist, and Larry Reyelts carried the Wartburg colors into the three fray. The Orange and Black warriors defeated Luther once and lost to Loras and Luther in a return match.

The scores of the three struggles were as follows:

Wartburg	3	Luther	1
Wartburg	1	Loras	5
Wartburg	2	Luther	4

Eight matches and the conference tournaments are listed in the battle orders given the Knights of the clay-courts and fairways as the tennis enthusiasts and six aspiring golfers are preparing for the spring jousts.

Of Great Derring Do

After donning their spiked shoes and sliding pads early in the spring of 1946, the valiant Knights went out, armed with bats, balls, gloves, and masks to joust on their own and enemy diamonds in a nine-game series of "tournaments."

Losers in their first four encounters, the valorous warriors drew second wind and rallied to three victories in the next four attempts, due to the splendid hurling of Sirs Olmstead and Droste and the vicious hitting of Sirs Hughes, Petersen, and company. The final encounter, however, saw them disarmed.

Pastimes

An "after basketball game" evening of singing around the Christmas tree in the girls' dorm.

Wartburg's Own

Once upon a time, in the fall of 1946, King Becker issued a proclamation inviting all his kinsmen to the celebration of the opening of Wartburg Castle. For several days the roads were crowded with people from various places of the domain. Even the foreign state of Texas was represented.

After the knights arrived, they registered for the various contests in which they wished to engage.

Bill Hughes and Heidi Lutz received information from Margaret Fritschel and Emilie Hannemann.

One evening the guests assembled in front of Wartburg Hall for the opening festivities. Senior Knight Norman Langholz reigned over the proceedings. During the evening Keith Hullinger, Elaine Schlesinger, and Esther Siemerling listened to one of his deeds of chivalry.

A band of troubadours from the depths of the Black Forest wandered in to serenade with their folk songs. Larry Reyelts and Ted Guetzlaff were two of this famous group.

Romantic Tale

One fine morning, the castle walls echoed with the voices of yeomen crying "Outfly!" After performing the ancient rite of the "snake dance" through the city-state of Waverly, all the castle-folk assembled at the traditional grounds.

There, on a high hill, overlooking the Cedar River, the ladies and knights exchanged tales of past successes and future dreams.

Darlene Muehling, Nadine Osincup, and Leone Huxsol Harrison, tired of these passive activities, ventured forth upon the river in a frail craft.

Carol Leicher captured the fishing trophy with this prize specimen of "pisces minnowa."

Around the evening campfire, several delicate knighties gave their forecast of the forthcoming tournaments.

The rigors of the opening tilts proved most discouraging to the lovely ladies Carol Loots, Deloris Peterson, and Lillian Gabel. They sadly feared no Lochinvars would ever notice them looking like this.

But beauty was not forgotten. Page Paul Lechner read an epic against the background of the fountain, while Ramona Gab cleaned out the pool. Gaylis Borchardt faithfully fulfilled her duties by counting the rivets in the drawbridge.

Of the Great Year

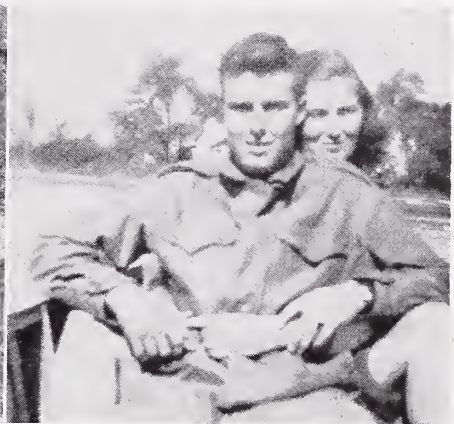

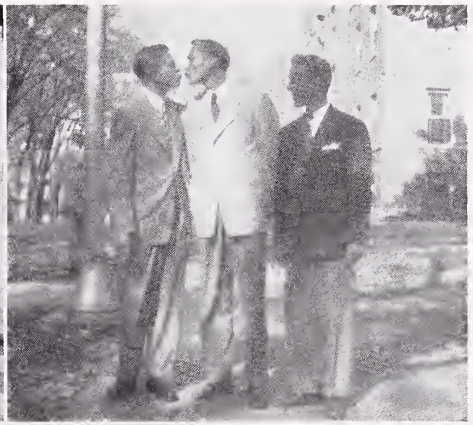

Carol Loots and Marcia Els contented themselves with the more womanly occupation of washing clothes.

Fair ladies held their attraction for brave knights at Wartburg Castle, too. Alvin Pinke agreed—that is, with Delores Loots beside him. (By the way, Delores was Wartburg's candidate for the Drake Relays Queen.)

Court jesters George Grulke and Bob Mueller indulged in a bit of osculation for Artie Baehmann, who seemed not to appreciate their wit.

Margaret Richmann and Dale Unger listened to the reports of the latest tournaments while Paul Koch proved himself a knight in the arm-er of Joan Sandrock.

1946-'47

One addition to Luther Hall this year was the plaque dedicated to the valiant knights who gave their lives in defending their country.

Governess Mildred Diedrich is helping one of her little pupils read about the legends and folklore of the people.

As the time for the big tournament with Buena Vista drew near, the castle became the scene of great activity.

Emilie Hannemann was chosen as queen of the ceremonies by popular election. Barbara Fritschel, last year's queen, was present to crown her lovely successor.

Members of Queen Emilie's court, also chosen by election, included Stella Buhr, Joan Sandrock, Queen Emilie, Connie Schumacher, and Phyllis Taylor. Crown-bearers were Kathy Becker and Judy Kohlman.

For the entertainment of the queen, each guild of the castle presented a short drama for "Kastle Kapers."

The German Guild presented "Der Student aus Paradies" with Helen Drewelow and Albert Wagner as the main characters.

"Little Nell" was presented by the Dramatic Guild. Donna Rose Gundacker, Ted Guetzlaff, Clifford Dirksen, and Bob Mueller were included in this scene.

The first evening of the celebration closed with a thrilling bonfire. Pete Sodt, court cheerleader, led cheers for the morrow's success at the tournament.

HOMECOMING THRILLS

At last the pageant arrived! Citizens gathered to watch the procession, as Knight-in-armor Larry Reyelts led the parade on his gallant charger. The Queen, Emilie Hannemann, surrounded by her charming court, smiled encouragingly to the valiant knights. The Lords and Ladies vied with each other in the competition for the best float. Then the laws of chivalry were displayed in all their courtliness when Johnny Wenzler drew the chariot of the Lady Eleanor Stubenvoll across the field. Finally, the highlight of all this preparation arrived—the contest between the formidable foes from Buena Vista and the valiant Wartburg Knights. It was a struggle long to be remembered—especially that final charge through enemy lines!

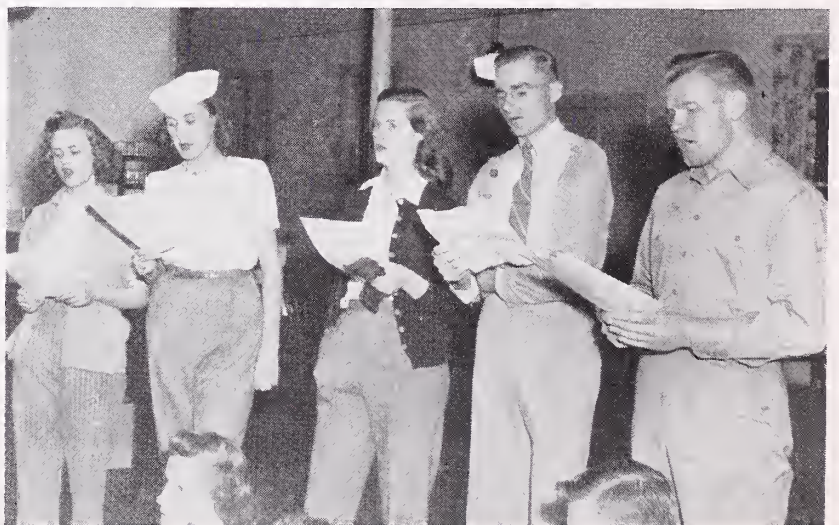

OCTOBER Fun

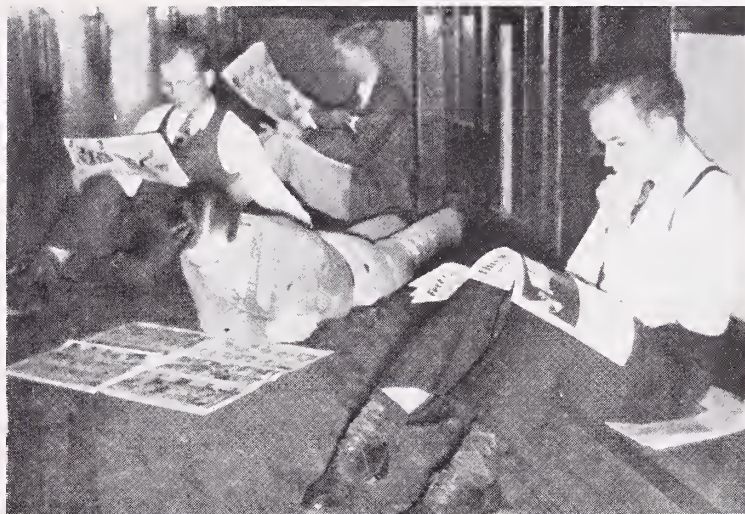

The Homecoming tournaments proved to be so much fun that everyone stayed on. Soon the weird, eerie spirit of Halloween settled over the castle. John Mutschler eagerly sought the advice of the gypsy fortune teller, Jane Aardal. The masquerade ball forced many Wartburg charms to be temporarily hidden. But Knight George Roleder didn't fool anybody under one of those mops—which one, though?

The sophomore "Meistersingers," Elsie Gresens, Audrey Matthias, Edith Nolting, Paul Albers, and Len Bauhs, evidently were not reliving a very cheerful scene.

At Wartburg Castle, culture was a part of everyday life. At Grossmann Hall, for example, were Cliff Dirksen, Marvin Goetz, Bob Reitz, and Marvin Krueger breathlessly reading the daring exploits of Superman and Dick Tracy.

Real culture was present, however, in this scene from an art exhibit and concert. Audra Peters sang "The Eighth Psalm" to the assembled guests.

Later—CULTURE AND COACH

The Dubuque Chapter of the Wartburg Alumni Association presented the castle with a welcome addition in the form of a new machine. The keys of this new machine, known as a suburban coach, were presented to King Becker by Envoy Donald Voigts of the Wartburg Seminary. This coach is being used by the castle-folk for transportation to tournaments and home provinces.

Winter spread its mantle over the bushes in front of the castle administration building, creating a scene of winter wonderland.

THEN WINTER'S SNOW

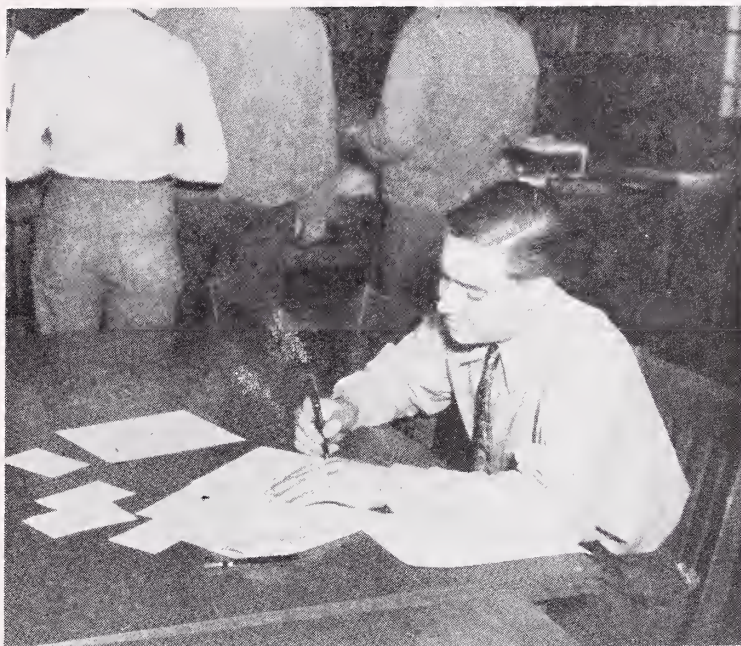

Christmas was celebrated by the members of Wartburg Hall with the traditional Christmas party. The ladies were royally entertained by a select group of artists from Wartburg Hall. Lois Volkmann, Minona Dettman, Eloise Brownson, Lois Chesley, Bunny Mathiesen, Nina Miller, and Milly Reinke give an idea of the intelligent and inspiring performance that was presented.

The Knights exchanged small tokens and spent the remainder of the evening in singing Yuletide carols.

And New Semester

What was this? A new kind of tournament? It looks as if registering for second semester and final exams were even more nerve-wracking to prepare for. Judging from the bewildered look on Wayne Bohling's face and the helter-skelter appearance of Sandy's room as she looks for those lost notes, the contests were pretty tough.

The freshman-sponsored Valentine party was a welcome change of mood. Aulden Schlatter, George Roderer, and Bill Steinert looked on while Delores Schiller poked her head through a paper heart. After the manner of medieval times, Ray Martin begged on bended knee for the love of Eleanor Stubenvoll.

Ray's valor, however, did not go unrewarded. He received a delicious pie in his face, while the M.C. (Mayor of the Castle), Bill Steinert, watched the proceedings.

Bring Dedication

At last the improvements started at the beginning of the year to house the overflow of Knights and Ladies were completed and the neighboring counts and nobles assembled to dedicate North Hall and the Den, which was a new stronghold of Wartburg Hall. The Rev. Paul Moeller addressed the assemblage, while Mayor I. H. McDaniels, Professor E. W. Matzner, the Rev. L. L. Belk, Dr. Henry Schuh, Dr. William Young, and the Rev. Otto Fangmeyer looked on. Then the Drs. Schuh and Young, representing the empire, and the Rev. Mr. Belk, representing the council, went through the ceremony of presenting to King Becker the stewardship of these edifices. To climax this momentous occasion, the clan gathered in the Wartburg Hall for a reception and tea. Pictured are Dorothy Peters, Betty Fallon, Jeane Matt, Dorothy Dahlstrom, and Wilma Georg.

AND STAGE PLAY

The Wartburg Players presented the mystery play "Double Door" to highlight the Den Dedication festivities.

Before the presentation, Joan Sandrock, Vic Schmidt, Mr. L. W. Brewster, and Russ Schilling helped to "fix flats" and repair scenery.

An exciting scene from the production is here portrayed by Marilyn Wallace, Marshall Becker, Lois Landdeck, Jane Aardal, and Ray Meier.

Below, Marshall Becker, Ray Meier, and Jane Aardal are shown talking over a domestic crisis in the play.

King Becker acquired the services of the Rev. Waldemar Langholz as head of the Wartburg Castle development program.

In the Castle Den students take time out for a snack. The Castle Lounge afforded a chance for Helen Rachut, Lorraine Soderberg, Ila Clark, and Florence Schutter to read the latest comics, while Dick Wiederanders changed the records in the new machine. At the post office Stube energetically opens her box. From the smile on his face Max Fliehler, too, must have a letter.

Joy In Den

After one of the big hunts, the Knights and Knighties assembled in the banquet hall, Donald Baehr (extreme right) giving a presentation of what it means to be "hungry as a Baehr."

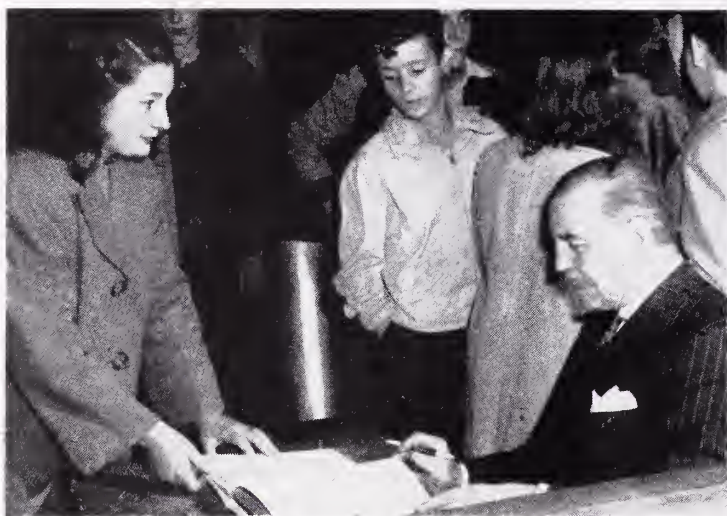

And Dorm Improvements

Carol Loots, Eleanor Wiebke, Darlene Saathoff, Adie Rudolph, and Gerry Hein enjoyed their new fourth floor bed-chamber in the turrets of Wartburg Hall. The North Hall bed-chambers were equally well appreciated after their new occupants had spent the winter camping off-campus. Here Ted Steenblock and Bob Herrboldt relaxed after a hard day spent learning to joust—play around.

Frank Buck returned from a crusade to the depths of Africa's jungle and gave an exciting account of his experiences. He is shown here giving his autograph to Renata Buechler.

Artist Series Stars

From the court of a neighboring king, a wandering band of musicians, the University of Iowa Symphony Orchestra, provided the castle with a splendid evening of entertainment. Later the orchestra joined the castle-folk in the banquet hall. The assistant director, Addison Alspach, and cellist, Professor Hans Koelbel, also waited their turn in line. Here King Becker expressed appreciation to the group.

—SO ENDS OUR TALE

As part of the cultural and entertainment program of the Wartburg Castle, the Artist Series presented the Don Cossack Chorus. All who heard this chorus will never forget their thrilling performance.

ENTERTAIN

Another memorable performance was given by Dorothy Maynor, soprano soloist. She and her accompanist, Ludwig Bergmann, are pictured at the Swensen home just before their departure.

Marjorie Moffett, diseuse, attended the tea given in her honor by the Pi Sigma. Miss Margaret Wolff talked with Miss Moffett, while Mrs. W. G. Fruehling poured.

And so they all lived happily ever after at the Castle Wartburg.

I am so glad to

From Friend to Friend

There is a close kinship between Wartburg College and the Wartburg Press. Both are official institutions of the same parent body, the American Lutheran Church.

The students of Wartburg College are regarded as good friends of the Wartburg Press family. There are alumni of the school who have working headquarters at 57 E. Main Street.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that the Wartburg Press takes this opportunity to extend greetings and congratulations to the Wartburg College students who at the close of this school year will be passing important milestones in their careers.

Just as Wartburg College is making plans for growth and greater service in the future, so the Wartburg Press is planning the growth and progression which is an essential feature in any living organization.

We of the Wartburg Press propose that the friendships which have developed between the students of Wartburg College and ourselves shall continue through the years that lie ahead. We invite the students of today, who will be the professional people of tomorrow, to remember that we are here to serve. To those who are members of the American Lutheran Church we would offer the reminder that they are in effect stockholders in this business.
